

Technical Perspectives on Analyst's Rating Changes

AG – case study

02-16-2008

AG – The TPARC report for September 5, 2006 called attention to the base that had formed and that the stock remained above the 45-degree Bullish Support Line. Both of those factors carried a bullish implication. Support did hold the stock up and shortly after the TPARC report was prepared, a new up trend commenced. The stock has more than doubled in value since that time.
