

Technical Perspectives on Analyst's Rating Changes

C – case study
02-10-2008

C – The TPARC report from September of 2005 called attention to a persistent long-term downtrend in the performance of C's stock. That downtrend has persisted over the next two plus years and the stock has declined significantly since the TPARC report was prepared. There have been no significant attempts to rally the stock since it started down and it still remains well below the 45-degree Bearish Resistance Line.

W. Clay Allen CFA

