

Technical Perspectives on Analyst's Rating Changes

CALM case study

03-02-2008

CALM – There were no rating changes covered by a TPARC report on CALM during the past two plus years. The stock has enjoyed very good performance during that time. It is unknown whether the stock is not followed by Wall Street analysts or whether the analysts have seen not seen reasons to change their ratings. MSN reports that only one analyst currently covers the stock and the rating is a "strong buy." The chart through the current time is shown below.
