CTAS case study

02-23-2008

CTAS – The TPARC report from September 2, 2005 indicated that CTAS was breaking down and was below the 45-degree Bearish Resistance Line and that support had failed. The downtrend has persisted over the next two years plus and the stock has performed poorly. CTAS has lost about 25% of its value since the TPARC report was prepared and it is still performing poorly today.
