ILMN case study

ILMN – The TPARC report for April 7, 2006 noted a persistent long-term up trend but warned of a broadening top. The top never materialized although the stock corrected in the second half of 2006 but it held above the 45-degree bullish support line. The up trend resumed after the correction was complete and another strong up leg in the move was recorded. The stock has more than tripled in value since the TPARC report was prepared.
