MER case study
02-17-2008

MER – The TPARC report for July 18,2007 described a top on MER and called attention to a downtrend that was underway. The volatility increased dramatically as the stock declined. In a short period of time the stock has lost almost a third of its value. A base has started to form at year-end of 2007 but the stock is still testing support. Everything depends on support holding the stock up.
