

Technical Perspectives on Analyst's Rating Changes

RTN case study

02-16-2008

RTN – The TPARC report for April 7, 2006 described RTN as having formed a major base and it was attempting a major reversal. That reversal did follow through and the stock has shown excellent long-term performance since. The 45-degree Bullish Support Line is still in place. The stock has risen by almost 50% since the TPARC report was prepared. The passage of time has removed much of the basing pattern that formed in 2002 and into 2003.

W. Clay Allen CFA

